Online Edition: Competition Subjects? January subject is “Bridges,” which must be the focus of your image. Competition Subjects and the December Competition Stats are posted on the website. Review the copy of “The Photographer’s Right,” which details your rights as an independent photographer to enjoy your photo taking in public places. Don’t be hassled by a “security” officer. Read this clear lawyer’s report. Make a copy and keep it with your gear.

TCCC Program Night: Monday Nov. 26: Ed Post’s Favorite Places. From Amber Robinson
Traveling with Ed Post to his “Favorite Places to Visit” gave us an eyeful of beautiful pictures to store in our memory. However, if you couldn't make his presentation, travel with us now to discover where we went throughout the USA. We first visited the New England States where places like fishing villages, lighthouses, and rocky shorelines made spectacular pictures. We then traveled to Smoky Mountains National Park, where we embraced the wandering roads and primitive buildings among the tree-lined terrain. The mist-like fog made the mountains look like silhouettes in the sky. We then headed down to Southern Florida and into Everglades National Park, where a variety of birds, wildlife, and plants awaited their photo shoot. However it was the birds that seem to capture Ed Post’s attention and he in turn captured a variety of birds in a moment of action, grace, and beauty. South Central California became our next stop to view the mountains, carpets of wildflowers, colorful rocks and canyons along with pristine sand dunes. Next, we traveled to the South Dakota Badlands to view masterpieces eroded by water and wind to create colorful sculpture out of the canyon walls. We then completed our trip by coming home to Michigan to see the magnificent lighthouses, wildlife, plants, spectacular falls, dunes, lakes, and rivers of both peninsulas. Ed Post’s wonderful presentation makes you want to travel and capture moments like he did, not only in other states but in our own backyard, Michigan.

Welcome to new members: Mark Sebenar of Stevensville, and Richard M. Freridge of St Joseph.

Life Member Fred Albrecht recently died.

Memorials may be given to American Cancer Society (Sara Bears Relay for Life Team), Woodland Shores Baptist Church, Bridgman MI or Hospice at Home. You make the choice. Fred’s photos rarely showed up in our competitions, but he was truly a loyal member for several decades.
